

C.C.F. Has Heavy Agenda

FIRST NATIONAL CONVENTION TO QUIT SATURDAY

Taxation Section of Man-fest to Be Considered

By SAM G. DAVIS

Calgary and Lethbridge, Alta. — Regina, July 21—Officially the first national convention of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation started in closing day's work this morning, but many of the big agenda still stood as session Saturday was considered likely.

The convention's first manifesto outlining the C.C.F. program had yet to be considered. The resolution to accept the manifesto, its report and the report of the convention committee had been received. These had been the election of a president, secretary and treasurer.

Forgoing a night convention session, delegates attended a public meeting in the city hall auditorium last night and heard Prof. Frank Scott of McGill University, Montreal, discuss the C.C.F. program and the constitutional difficulties lying before the putting into operation of the election manifesto.

Addressing the meeting were J. S. Wood, M.P., Saskatchewan; W. W. Wimperis, M.P., and provincial presidents M. J. Colwell, Regina, president of the Saskatchewan Farmer-Labor party.

REDS REPULSED AT FUNERAL RITE

PORT COBORG, Ont., July 21.—Attempts by Port Coborg agitators to turn the funeral of John Stefan, foreman from a Christian socialist union, into a protest meeting were frustrated yesterday by police.

The agitators, who had planned a protest attack and the funeral was held from the home of friends. Rev. O. E. Dill, pastor of the First Methodist church, and the funeral service.

As the funeral procession left the residence, alleged Communists who had been in charge and ordered the undertaker to proceed to the Ukrainian Hall where the agitators had planned a protest for the Communist service.

The body was taken to the hall, but when the agitators, Dr. Horwitz, police arrived and ordered the body taken to the hall, the agitators were carried out.

NOTABLE RAIL FIGURE PASSES

VANCOUVER, July 21.—A spine-bent clad figure which to thousands of travellers passing through the city in the past seven years represented a bountiful of friendliness in a strange land, died yesterday. He was the station master and terminal of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

John Edward Barrett, 67, born in Toronto, who joined the C.P.R. in 1907 and since 1925 has been terminal master at Vancouver, died yesterday in General Hospital.

A born diplomat, kindly of disposition, Bert Pearson, a former station master, described the senior agent with notable skill.

Meeting trains and ships in all weathers, day and night, and rain and sleet, he rushed trans-Pacific arrivals through the custom and tax clearance, and handled special tour parties, too, of celebrities, and his good nature, which charmed his crippled travellers, straightened out sleepless passengers, and, in his quiet way, baggages and tickets and generally carried out the multifarious tasks of his office with good humor and amazing patience.

Now GO WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVII

THE day dawned dark and chill. Barrett had turned to a steady, cold rain. Barrett had eaten a sumptuous breakfast and moved restlessly, waiting for Elmer, who had not yet come. The boy, however, had had his breakfast in bed. He stood before the fire, hands clasped, and gazed at the crackling coals. He moved to a window and then turned away, picked up a pen and began to read a paper. A moment later he had read a part. He took his hand, held it between his thighs. He saw the tears in his eyes. His hands had been different when he last had seen them. He had not been able to hold them now. He had not been able to hold them now.

The maid, dusting him, said, "You are a good boy, Elmer. You are a good boy."

Elmer, however, had turned to the window. He did all these things half a dozen times and found he could not hold them now.

"Please let me go, Barrett," he begged.

No Trading in Grain and

Chicago Today

CHICAGO, July 21—Following the frenzied trading session in which grain prices took one of the most violent downward turns in the exchange, directors of the board of trade last night decided to suspend trading in grain futures for the time being, that swept the market yesterday and today.

The decision was reached at a directors' emergency meeting called within the space of a few hours to consider the situation. The market had been trading at a price level which was far above the market yesterday and today.

The brief holiday, Robert C. Boylan, vice-president of the board and general manager, takes a measure of relief to the employees of the exchange, who have worked long and hard for the last several weeks under what has been a record volume of business.

A similar situation was experienced in the grain market, and three shortened trading sessions were adopted by the exchange to give the market a rest.

Officials said no word had been received from Washington with a long awaited order, and the market has phrased the action was taken voluntarily.

DAT'S PANS

—BILL LEWIS—

The current exhibition race meeting is proving a tough one as the golfers in the hills of the sky yesterday suffered a broken bone after his mount in the seventh race. Lord H. H. fell and took him to the ground.

The popular Calgary youngster has been kicked out and racegoers will be sorry to see him out of action.

Jockey Froggat suffered the same accident and is also in hospital.

It's a hard life for the jockeys when the reins are grounded with that type of injury. . . . Incidentally, another good rider came to the track yesterday, a person of the person of A. Gathier. . . . He's a real good boy on a horse. . . .

The meeting continued along the lines of the previous, but was a little lighter, as the weather has been excellent and the spectators have been few. . . . The indications were given that this would prove the best week of racing in the history of this city.

For the first time, the race meeting will run past the regular week of the exhibition. . . . The meeting will be held on Monday afternoon, instead of Saturday, as a chance to have a longer session of racing and give the losses of the first six days, if any, a chance to be made up. . . . It will undoubtedly meet with approval of all, for Edmontonians think the same as the other citizens of the regular Prairie circuit. . . . And this city is rapidly becoming a real racing spot.

Calgary Herald and Bill Buxton, popular Calgary sports men, are the best men for a few days of the racing. . . .

Rain which came down hard between the sixth and seventh races yesterday also put a blank on the Grandstand ball and between Shasats and Royals.

It is to be hoped when the downpour made the field wet for play . . . The game will be staged tonight. . . .

This evening's game is likely to prove the most exciting of the early part of the second half. . . . It means plenty to both teams to win the second-half honors and they'll be out there battling for the win with all their might.

The Grandstands will be filled again, as the Grandstands and the

Postponed Shasta - Royal
Battle is Carded At Renfrew Park

Postponed Thursday when the heavy downpour of rain in the late afternoon made play impossible, the scheduled Senior Baseball League game between Shasta and Royal was rescheduled for Saturday evening, starting at 8:30 o'clock sharp.

The day's layoff did not change the complexion of the league race standings. Both teams are in a position where they still need a victory and they are determined to capture the President's Purse, featuring the final of Thursday's program on the exhibition racing meeting of seven days.

The Whinneys' opening, gelding went into the race as third favorite and was beaten by a neck in a close race.

Shasta's Shadwell, a gelding, was in a class of his own, winning by 10 lengths.

B.C. FOURS NOT TO ROAR IN MEET

VANCOUVER, July 21.—British Columbia, with one of the strongest taekwondo fours ever developed here, will probably not be represented in the national meet at Henley-Pestalozzi next week.

With the expense of transporting their equipment, and expensive and unable to borrow a shell in the east, the Vancouver team club is probably out of the running, and all odds are against coming today.

TROCHU, July 21.—A bowling club, the third in the province, William Weicker as president and W. Bellon as secretary, many having entered, will have its first home game at the Hotel "Sunken Garden" bowling green.

The club is in real good and in excellent shape. The "sunken garden" bowling greens were constructed by Mr. Weicker, his initiative at his own expense. Much credit is due Mr. Weicker for persevering in getting the club off the ground spot. Bowling is now very popular with both ages of school.
